Cold And Sleet In This Area

Driving is Made Hazardous After Freezing Drizzle Early in Day

After the summer weather over the week-end winter has returned and today it returned in a big way. During the night came freezing rain which was topped with a light snow, and during the morning it got slicker. By noon the sleet started and pounded against the windshields of cars and the window panes in homes. Driving became worse, with cars slipping and sliding over the streets. Then came the snow, huge flakes fell fast and everything became white. Then the flakes became smaller but fell just as fast as the big ones. Winter has returned with a big white flourish.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13—(AP)—A cold wave, accompanied by freezing rain, sleet and snow, struck northern and central Missouri today.

Temperatures dropping to zero to 5 below are forecast for the northwest half by tomorrow morning. The coldest in the southeast is expected to be 5 above.

Freezing drizzle and sleet made highways slick and driving hazardous in northern and central parts of the state. In the Macon area, one half inch of mixed sleet and snow fell overnight. It was snowing hard in the Hannibal area this morning. Roads were covered with a thin sheet of ice, sleet and snow. Spots of solid ice were on pavements in Callaway, Boone, Cooper, Moniteau and Cole counties.

A freezing drizzle was reported as far south as Hickory county. It was raining in the Kirkwood highway division and light mist was falling in St. Louis. The weather bureau said some icing was in prospect for power lines in the St. Louis area.

It was cloudy and comparatively warm in southeast Missouri.

The coldest spot reported in Missouri last night was 12 above

One Loses Life In Plane Crash Near Parsons

Others of 15-man Crew Save Selves By Parachute Drops

PARSONS, Kas., Feb., 13—(AP)—A B-29 superfortress from Barksdale air force base, Shreveport, La., crashed and burned north of Parsons today, killing one member of the 15-man crew.

All aboard were ordered to bail out by the captain when, one survivor reported, "something went wrong."

The body of one man, a sergant, was recovered from a Katy railroad pond not far from the scene of the crash.

Two of the survivors were in a Parsons hospital, one suffering from a back injury and the other from a broken ankle. Five others, none believed seriously hurt, were taken to the hospital for examination. Seven were not injured.

Crew members said the plane cleared Barksdale at 9:40 a. m. (SCT). Its destination was not known here.

Witneses saw several men parachute from the craft.

One of the survivors, sergeant C. J. Cody, said he was ordered to bail out by the captain when "something went wrong." He landed in a field about a mile and a half north of the city and saw the plane crash.

Another survivor, a lieutenant, parachuted into the yard of Lloyd Bouldin, on Parsons' north side. The lieutenant was taken to police headquarters, where he called the Barksdale base to report the crash.

Marcus Oakleaf, a Mound Valley stockman, said he saw five men parachute from the plane. Another witness, Mack Hurd of Parsons, said he heard a terrific blast and saw a flash of fire. He placed the time at 11:15 a. m.

One unidentified crew member said he believed all members of the crew took to their parachutes

Reporters for the Parsons Sun said the wreckage was scattered over a five-acre area. An hour after the crash, three fires still were burning in various parts of the wreckage.

The crash occurred about 200 yards east of a Katy railroad tower, about two miles north of the city limits.

Compromise Ends Problem On Bus Route

Agreement as to Schedule on 24th And North Osage

A meeting held Monday night which was scheduled to be a public hearing on a request of the Sedalia Bus Co., to reduce the number of daily trips on the 24th Street and North Osage route, turned into a most harmonious discussion with no protests being registered to the final compromise solution.

Mayor Herb Studer, presided over the hearing and announced to the audience of nearly 100 persons, "This meeting has been called to consider a request to the City of Sedalia for a reduction in the operating hours of the Sedalia bus, known as the 24th, Ohio and Osage route.

Route Loses Money

"It is contended by the bus company that this route is losing a considerable amount of money each day and therefore are requesting, if at all possible, some adjustment be made.

"Any decision concerning this request can be made more intelligently when all parties have been heard. Therefore, this public hearing is set on this date in order that the governing body of the city will be better informed to make a decision, which we hope will be satisfactory to all parties concerned."

Fred F. Wesner, attorney for Marvin Howard and the Bus company was the first to take the floor and explained the request of the coming. He told of the lack of revenue on the line especially between certain hours of the day and the operation costs were losing the company from $15 to $20 a day.

J. B. Hylick, principal of the Hubbard high school and grade school was called upon and he

Pay Hike to Road Workers

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13—(AP)—Most state highway department employes — about 2,000 of them — will get cost of living pay increases ranging from five to ten per cent starting this month, it was announced today.

Ten per cent increases will go to those getting $400 or less a month. Those now getting between $400 and $460 will get boosts ranging from five to seven per cent, Chief Engineer Carl W. Brown, said.

Only 50 or so officers and employes — those whose pay is set by statute or who receive more than $460 a month — won't benefit by the hike, Brown explained. He said the pay boost will cost the department about $51,000 a month.

Temporary workers, like the fellows who are hired on days like this to keep the highway passable, will get a ten per cent increase.

Brown said more and more department employes are leaving for better paying industrial work. The increase is designed to help department workers meet the higher cost of living and to coax them into staying with the state.

Ban on Press At Hangings

U. S. Forbids a Coverage of Seven To be Executed

By Richard K. O'Malley

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 13—(AP)—U. S. authorities have forbidden press coverage of the hanging of seven condemned German war criminals at Landsberg prison, a high-ranking U. S. army officer said today.

Relatives of the seven condemned men have been notified by official telegrams that they could make final visits to the prisoners today. Normally such prisoners are executed in the pre-dawn hours of the day following such final visits.

The army spokesman told reporters the press ban was decreed by U. S. high commissioner John J. McCloy and Gen. Thomas T. Handy, U. S. commander in Europe.

"There will be no further comment on this," he added.

He refused to say when the executions will occur.

The decision of the two ranking U. S. officials was in flat contradiction to previous policy, but apparently was taken for fear of demonstrations.

Press coverage was permitted at the Nuernberg executions of Nazi war criminals in an annex of the Hall of Justice.

Ones Condemned

Those condemned and the crimes for which they were sentenced, are:

Hans Schmidt, for three years SS adjutant at the infamous Buchenwald concentration camp. In commanding during a period when 5,000 prisoners died monthly and direction of "Commando 99," a special group charged with killing prisoners.

Georg Schallermair, former roll call chief at Muehldorf concentration camp, convicted of having personally beaten prisoners to death and of overseeing the extraction of gold from teeth of slain inmates.

Oswald Pohl, former SS general in charge of all German concentration camps. Units under him carried out the liquidation of Jews in the Auschwitz concentration camp, the destruction of the Warsaw ghetto and pillage and murder of Jews in east Europe

Otto Ohlendorf, former major general in charge of an extermination group in Russia which slaughtered 90,000 men, women and children.

Werner Braune, former gestapo official convicted of carrying out the "Simperopol massacre" of thousands of Jews and gypsies.

Erich Maumann, former SS brigadier general, command of an extermination unit which killed 3,539 people in 24 hours.

Paul Blobel, former SS colonel, found guilty of ordering the killing of 60,000 people in the notorious two-day massacre at Kiev, Russia.

MacArthur Makes Visit To Seoul Area

Feels it Necessary To Smash Foe In North Korea

By Russell Brines

TOKYO, Feb. 13—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur returned from a visit to the edge of Seoul today and said that talk of a drive north of the 38th parallel in Korea "is purely academic."

Patrols may cross the parallel, he said, but "we must materially reduce the existing superiority of the Chinese Communist enemy . . before we can seriously consider conducting a major operations north of that geographic line."

MacArthur is known to feel the Allies cannot win the campaign without smashing the Communists in North Korea.

The United Nations commander said the recent Allied offensive had scored only tactical successes. He warned against evaluating these as "decisively leading to the enemy's defeat."

MacArthur stood near the thawing Han river in Korea today while artillery and air power smashed at Seoul—the high point of the western advance in that offensive.

The Chinese, he said in a statement issued after his return here, have considerable manpower and equipment despite an "astronomical increase" in the destructiveness of Allied air power.

United Nations forces "are still engaged in a war of maneuver" designed to inflict maximum casualties on the enemy and keep him off balance, MacArthur said.

Depends On Decision

MacArthur said the future of the Korea campaign is "largely dependent upon international considerations and decisions not yet known here."

"From a military standpoint," the United Nations commander said, "we must materially reduce the existing superiority of our Chinese Communist enemy engaging with impunity in undeclared war against us, with the unprecedented military advantage of sanctuary protection for his military potential against our counterattack upon Chinese soil, before we can seriously consider conducting major operations north of the 38th parallel."

MacArthur's statement was issued through his public information office two hours after he returned from his tenth inspection of the front.

MacArthur's statement said:

"Talk of crossing the 38th parallel at the present stage of the campaign, except by scattered patrol action incidental to the tactical situation is purely academic.

"We are still engaged in a war of maneuver with the object of inflicting as heavy a punishment upon the enemy as possible, striving constantly to keep him off balance to prevent his obtaining and holding the tactical initiative while at the same time avoiding the hazards inherent in his numerical superiority. The concept advanced by some that we could establish a line across Korea and enter into positional warfare is wholly unrealistic and illusory."

MacArthur said the Eighth army exploiting the "astronomical increase in the destructiveness of our air power" has "achieved local tactical successes" in its recent offensive.

But he cautioned "We must not fall into the error of evaluating such tactical successes as decisively leading to the enemy's defeat just as many erred in assessing our strategic withdrawals in the face of Communist China's commitment to war as a decisive defeat inflicted upon us."

MacArthur said an attempt to establish a line across Korea would "insure the destruction of our forces piecemeal."

He warned that the Communists still have plentiful manpower and supplies.

Land Reforms in Iran to Better Conditions There

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

It's a notable commentary of our times that Persia's serious young shah has joined Asiatic leaders who at long last recognize abject poverty as being the cause of most of the unrest in their part of the world.

Twice within recent days 32-year-old shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi has made striking moves to better conditions in his own country. The first was his announcement that he will sell his huge holdings to the land hungry peasants. Yesterday he capped this by ordering that the celebrations in connection with his marriage to the Princess Saraya Escandiari should be stripped of the usual regal pomp and be confined to one day as a measure of national economy.

To understand just what this means you have to know that less than 300 families control most of the land and other wealth in Persia. The shah himself is offi-

Science Gift Of Bigger And Jucier Fruit

By Ovid A. Martin

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Strawberries as big as peaches, apples as large as grapefruit, and vegetables much larger and more succulent than those now grown may become a new scientific gift to the consumer.

Agriculture department plant scientists say a new development in the science of plant breeding opens a startling new field for development of new and better varieties of fruits, vegetables, grains, and flowers.

It involves the use of a drug called colchicine, which has been utilized for many years in developing new plants. Heretofore, it was effective only on a very limited number of plants.

The drug has the ability of modifying characteristics of plants treated with it. Through its use, it is possible to take plants of desirable characteristics, cross-breed or hybridize them and come up with new plants bearing double the desirable characteristics of the parent plants, officials said.

Colchicine is a poisonous drug derived from the autumn crocus.

A new method of treating plants with colchicine—developed by Dr. Hamilton P. Traub of the department's bureau of plant industry—makes it possible to use it successfully for the first time on a broad list of plants and flowers.

Under this method, a plant is treated with the drug and then given an eight-hour "rest" period under which it is allowed to "recuperate." This treatment is repeated from four to six times.

Heretofore, the method had involved one single severe treatment.

Chinese Reds Make Endeavor To Split Lines Of The Allies

Down Out of Mountains to Try it Between Wonju and Yoju

By Olen Clements

TOKYO, Feb. 13—(AP)—Chinese Communists shifted the direction of their massive attack in central Korea today and headed down mountain corridors in and effort to split the allied lines between Wonju and Yoju.

General MacArthur visited the western front and warned on his return to Tokyo that the enemy still has plenty of manpower and supplies.

The first Red onslaughts dented allied lines as much as 18 miles and swept United Nations forces out of the road center of Hoengsong, 10 miles north of Wonju and 50 air miles east of Seoul.

But this apparently was only the eastern wing of a heavier attack now gathering momentum.

Leadoff columns of at least seven Chinese divisions massed in the area west of Hoengsong and north of Cyipyong struck southward Tuesday. They slipped past Chipyong, 19 miles west of Hoengsong, and headed down two mountain valleys toward the Wonju-Yoju road.

Other Chinese forces surrounded Chipyong and Tuesday night launched an attack on the town. Tanks or self-propelled guns pounded Chipyong from the south west while artillery or mortars were firing from the northeast. Other attacks came from the north and east.

Mortar fire was falling inside Chipyong.

The Chinese were moving in bands numbering up to 1,000 men. They ran into a fury of allied air attacks.

Allied air force, marine and navy planes combined in low-level strikes aimed to break up the mounting threat to the main east-

Two Hundred At Cooperative Annual Meet

Weather Cuts Attendance at Session Held

The annual meeting of the Central Missouri Electric Cooperative, Inc., is being held at convention hall, Liberty park, this afternoon. The meeting opened shortly after 1:00 o'clock with less than 200 members in attendance.

Many of the members were unable to reach Sedalia because of the slick and snow covered pavements and roads. The attendance at the 1950 meeting was more than 1,000.

Rev. Elmer D. Botts opened the meeting, giving the invocation, which was followed with the reading of the minutes.

Thomas J. Raines, president of the organization, presided and gave his annual report. Mrs. Edward Heffernan, secretary-treasurer gave her report which was followed by the report of Leland M. LaVelle, manager of the cooperative.

William W. Beckett, assistant general counsel for the Missouri Farmer's Association, is to give the principal address, using as his subject, "The Benefits of Cooperatives and Cooperation." Mr. Beckett replaced Fred Hinkel, president of the M.F.A., who was unable to come to Sedalia due to illness with the flu.

Awards Presented

Presentation of Safety Awards was made by A. B. Blacklock, safety instructor.

Election of three directors will be held late this afternoon.

The Vaughn sisters entertained the group at the opening of the meeting and during the election with several vocal numbers.

The Central Missouri Electric Cooperative services the rural members in Pettis, Saline, and the northwest quarter of Benton county. It now has 1,600 miles of rural lines serving 4,200 rural homes with electric service. The organization has 139 miles of line under construction which will serve an additional 290 rural homes.

Difficult to Fix Price Level

Most Products of The Farm Are Still Below Parity

By Ovid A. Martin
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—If the government is to attain price and wage stability, it may be forced to prescribe some bitter medicine for agriculture.

This view appeared today to be growing in official and unofficial quarters witnessing the sparring of stabilization officials with food prices and wages.

Much of the difficulty in bringing the price level and wage scales under control is attributed to farm and food prices. Under the law, relatively few farm products can be frozen yet. They have not risen to the level of price protection granted by law.

Organized labor rebels against having its pay frozen as long as there is room for its cost of living — and particularly food—to go higher.

Early in World War II the battle wound up with agriculture accepting something its leaders bitterly resisted — subsidies.

Again agriculture may be asked to choose between subsidies and possible removal of its present price ceiling protection.

Under present law, ceilings may not be placed on farm products at less than the higher of (1) parity prices or (2) peak prices prevailing between May 24 and June 24, the month before the fighting started in Korea. For most products, the parity price is the minimum legal ceiling.

Suggest Law Change

The legal bar against ceilings below parity has run into a lot of criticism. Critics contend this bar stands in the way of price and wage control.

Suggestions have been made that the law be changed and that

More Women Than Needed Volunteer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said today it is unnecessary to draft women because more are volunteering than the armed services can use.

The draft director also told an American university student meeting that selective service battles constantly to get the armed forces to accept men with low examination scores. But congress, "with wisdom or not," gave the services the right to choose the men they want, Hershey said. He added:

"Every time you reject a man for illiteracy it is possible that one college student goes into service in his place."

Artists' Program for Music Club Postponed

Because of the icy condition of the highway it will be impossible for the Kansas City Conservatory quartet, which was to have appeared on the program to make the trip.

Students May Delay Induction

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 — (AP) —Selective service laid down its formal rules today which many thousands of college and high school students wil have a chance to enlist in the service of their choice even after their school term ends next summer.

A 30-day postponement of induction is provided for these students.

Under law, inductions of students called up while they are in school are postponed automatically until the end of the school year. But at that time they would be called immediately.

The new policy provides that a student, even if he has been ordered for induction, will be allowed to apply for a 30-day hold-up of his induction notice, stating his purpose to enlist. The postponement would begin at the end of the school year.

Then, at the end of the 30 days, his draft board would make a check. If the student had enlisted, his case would be closed. If he hadn't, he would be drafted.

Selective service officials said they feel the new policy will allow the student to devote his entire final month to his studies, instead of spending time scouting around recruiting stations. Many students have been trying to enlist in the air force or the navy, rather than wait to be drafted for service in the infantry.

Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey issued the instructions, relating to the 30-day postponement arrangement, in telegrams to all state directors of selective service.

Will Turkey be Another Korea?

Failure to Admit Turkey to Atlantic Group Seen as an Invitation to Red Aggression

LINEUP IN THE MEDITERRANEAN: Shaded countries are anti-Red nations which have not been admitted to the North Atlantic Treaty organization; figures are estimates of their manpower under arms available to battle Russian aggression. (Countries in black, with manpower also indicated, are Soviet satellites (and the Russian Caucasus) which constitute a spring threat to the Balkans and the rest of the Mediterranean.

By Leon Dennen
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—With the return of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower from his European survey, Turkey has renewed its pressure for admission into the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

Numerous well-informed persons here believe our failure to enroll Turkey in the NATO against communism is a wide-open invitation to aggression by Russia. They point out that our announced disinclination to defend Korea invited Communist aggression there in June, 1950.

June of 1951 may be a month of crisis in the Mediterranean. U. S. intelligence reports highlight the Balkans as the next likely target in Stalin's creeping global war. As in the Orient, the attack is expected to come from Russia's captive allies.

Yugoslavia and Greece probably would receive the first blows. Turkish leaders realize that if the red tide should roll over the Balkans they would be isolated in the eastern Mediterranean—standing virtually alone between Russia and the oil-rich Middle East.

On balance, the anti-Russian nations seem equipped with enough manpower to stand off any onslaught from Russia's satellites, if they fight together and receive sufficient equipment from the United States.

A survey shows this lineup of men under arms, based on best recent estimates:

Our side: Turkey, 1,000,000; Yugoslavia, 500,000; Spain, 400,000; Greece, 200,000. Total, 2, 100,000.

Their side: In the Russian Caucasus, 200,000; Bulgaria, 130,000; Romania, 250,000; Hungary, 140,000. Total 720,000.

Actually, both sides bring about the same forces to bear at the most likely line of impact—where Yugoslavia and Greece border the Russian satellies.

Yugoslavia and Greece field approximately 700,000 men against the 720,000 of Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania, backed up by the Ruscian forces in the Caucasus. Forces of both sides are subject naturally, to sudden expansion in the event of full mobilization, but the presence of a million Turks astride the Bosporus would pin down some Bulgarian and many Russian divisions in the Caucasus, even if they should not fire a shot.

A decision thus might depend upon the relative amount of military aid given the token contestants by the United States and Russia.

Our ability to furnish modern arms to Balkan allies would be greatly limited by commitments to the Far East and Western Europe. There is no question Russia stands to gain by striking in the Balkans while the U. S. is heavily engaged elsewhere and while the United Nations is weakened by the defection of India's Nehru.

Admission of Turkey and Spain to the North Atlantic Treaty organization has been urged by Senator Harry P. Cain and Homer Ferguson. Others here believe Yugoslavia and Greece should be admitted to full partnership in the NATO.

Allied reluctance to include Spain in the NATO is due mainly to political expediency. But even opponents of Franco's dictatorship concede the impossibility of defending Europe's vital Pyrenees line without Spain.

With only the narrow Gibraltar Straits as a water-crossing, Spain is invaluable as an overland route between France and Africa. She can offer the Atlantic Allies strategic naval bases at Ft. Ferrol, Cadiz, Cartagena and modern airfeilds at Madrid, Barcelona and Seville.

More baffling to experts on Russia is the West's failure to include Turkey in the NATO. Perched at the crossroads of Europe and Asia, Turkey is not only the key to the Eastern Mediterranean but also the strongest Eurasian power next to Soviet Russia.

Through her command of the Dardanelles Straits, long coveted by Communist as well as Czarist Russia, Turkey controls Moscow's only direct water route from the Black Sea into the Mediterranean. With Iran rapidly succumbing to Soviet pressure, she is also the West's first line of defense in the Middle East.

At the same time, Turkey is within a stone's throw from Russia's precious oil fields in Baku.

Turkey is bound by treaties to Britain, France and Italy. She also maintains friendly relations with Israel. But Ankara's efforts to create an Eastern Mediterranean alliance fell through largely because of the chaotic state of political affairs in the Arab states. Syria, for one, took a negative attitude toward the Turkish suggestions because, allegedly, Turkey also intended to include Israel in the alliance.

Ankara's request for admission to the NATO recently was turned down by the Allies and she was accorded merely consultative status. The British reportedly were reluctant to "extend the area of conflict."

Turkish statesmen are not convinced by this geographic argument, especially since pro-Soviet guerrillas have already been fighting in Greece. They argue that exclusion of Turkey might well produce the reverse effect.

Ankara seeks to impress the Allies that the Mediterranean is a room with two doors. One door is locked through the participation of France and Italy in the NATO. The other is wide open to invasion.

Recapture Two Of Escapees

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13—(AP)—The state highway patrol recaptured Monday two of four reformatory inmates who slugged a civilian employe and escaped from the institution.

The patrol report said William E. Coleman, 17, of Randolph County and Robert Lee Miller, 17, of Kansas City, were caught southeast of Jefferson City, just a few miles from Algoa Intermediate reformatory.

Miller and Coleman fled from the reformatory early today with Billie Lee Despain, 17, and Dewayne Wilfong, 16, both of Buchanan County. The two captured today said they split up while it was still dark.

The patrol said the four escaped from their cellblock, slugged a power plant employe, Ernest A. Vieth of Osage City, and stole his car. But they ran the car into a ditch and the teen-age youths tried to continue their escape on foot.

State troopers searched the countryside as others scanned the wooded area from a patrol plane. Reformatory bloodhounds trailed the two recaptured so far.

Algoa officials said Vieth was not seriously hurt but was bound tightly with wire to keep him from giving an immediate alarm.

All but Despain were recent transfers from Boonville training school for delinquent boys. Despain was serving a five-year sentence for first degree robbery.

Cleaner Kills Negro Trying To Rob Shop

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13—(AP)—A 25-year-old Negro ex-convict was shot to death last night by owner of a cleaning shop, who told police the man had tried to rob him.

Police said the dead man was Elbert Robert Johnson, Fort Smith, Ark., formerly of Kansas City. He had a record of five convictions for larceny, burglary and motor car theft. He was paroled last Dec. 22 from a 9-year sentence imposed Feb. 24, 1944.

The owner of the shop, Edgar C. Aust, 47, was cut on the neck by Johnson when Aust reached under a counter for a .32 caliber revolver.

Crippled by polio when he was 12, Aust walks with a cane. He said he was robbed Jan. 27 and Feb. 8, and he believed Johnson was involved in both those holdups.

A healthy childhood is the basis for a healthy adult life. Little Lee Horton age four, of 108 74th Avenue, Houston, Texas, was deficient in Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron and just didn't have any appetite at all. His father, Mr. F. W. Horton, said that they just couldn't get Lee to eat. Then they heard about HADACOL on the radio, and decided to try it for Lee. After taking HADACOL, said Mr. Horton, Lee's appetite picked up and he started eating three hearty meals a day. Now Lee has gained weight, has more energy, and never has to be coaxed to eat.

Lee Horton

Here is Mr. Horton's own statement:

"Lee was very weak and rundown and just didn't want to eat at all. We heard about HADACOL on the radio and decided that was what Lee needed. After he started taking HADACOL his appetite picked up right away. He started gaining weight and eats real well now, and has been feeling real good. HADACOL has been good for Lee and I heartily recommend it to everyone."

All in a Year's Work

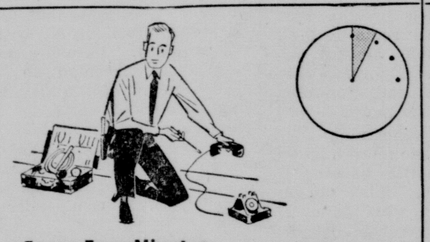

HERE'S WHAT WAS DONE IN 1950 TO BUILD A STRONGER, BETTER TELEPHONE SYSTEM IN MISSOURI

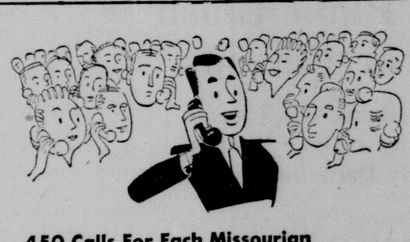

188,500 Square Feet of Floor Space . . .
Nine new telephone buildings or building additions were either completed or started in Missouri during the year—an additional 188,500 square feet of living quarters for a fast-growing telephone system. Inside buildings, enough new dial equipment and main switchboard positions were added to serve almost 18,000 telephones.

7 Times Around The World . . .
During 1950, about 179,000 miles of wire were added to Missouri's telephone system to carry local and long distance calls—enough to circle the earth more than seven times at the equator. Another familiar scene that indicates telephone growth — the placing of a new telephone pole — was repeated 19,500 times last year.

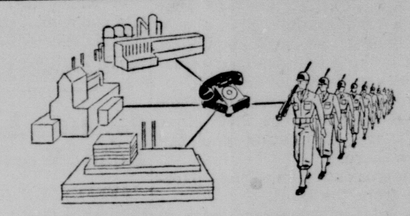

Every Four Minutes . . .
Installers were busy, connecting 118,000 telephones last year . . . an average of one every 4 minutes . . . nearly twice as many telephones as there are in Springfield and St. Joseph combined. During the year, 83,000 Missourians discontinued their service, leaving a net gain of 22,000 and bringing total number of telephones in service to 874,000.

450 Calls For Each Missourian
The growth of telephone service is reflected in the increased number of calls made by telephone users. During 1950, an estimated 1,764 million calls were made—an average of 450 calls for every man, woman, and child in Missouri. Such vigorous telephone growth is always a good thing—but today, doubly important as a stockpile of strength for defense.

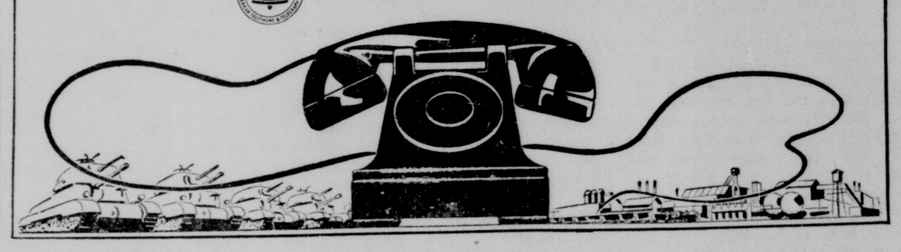

Growth Is Expensive . . .
Materials, wages, and construction costs have gone up tremendously. Gross construction cost in Missouri last year was $22,178,000. That's an average of $22.63 for each of the 980,000 people in all walks of life whose help we must have to pay for expansion and improvement of telephone service—the people who have invested their savings in the telephone system.

We Can't Stop Growing Now . . .
The need for telephone growth is far from satisfied. It is imperative that we meet fully the service demands for defense, both military and industrial. Now, as never before, improved telephone company earnings are important — for only adequate earnings can attract new investment money needed to expand the telephone system.

Sorosis Speaker Tells Of Gay Things In Europe

From the very start of her journey to Europe in 1950 Mrs. Ophelia Demaree, of Kansas City, had fun and adventure bringing back to the people of her own country the story of friendships she had made, things she had learned and memories she treasured. That was the story she told at Sorosis Monday afternoon.

Starting with the four and one-half days going over on the Queen Elizabeth she told of the constant entertainment provided and the tea served in the afternoon which she liked. In London one of the first things she did was to go to Hyde Park and listen to the soap box derbies, with every soap box orator talking on a different subject, as loudly as he could talk.

Petticoat Lane in London Mrs. Damaree found quite different from the Petticoat Lane in Kansas Ctiy, for in London carts lined the street on Sunday morning selling wares of all kinds. These carts arrived Saturday night and disappeared Sunday night to return again on the following Saturday night.

A trip of seven weeks called for some beautification once in awhile, Mrs. Damaree said, and she found ways of doing things in the beauty parlors of Europe not just like she was accustomed to. Instead of leaning back to have your hair washed you leaned forward and your hair was finished off with plenty of cologne, so you went out smelling loudly of somebody else's idea of good cologne. But there was also a bright side of it too—a shampoo, wave set and manicure cost only $1.00.

Hampton court Mrs. Damaree said, had the most beautiful gardens and a clock that tells you everything except your age. In London, too, in the bombed out areas grew the miracle flower, a lovely little yellow blossom. This flower appeared after the great London fire and then was never seen again until after the bombings when it sprang up all over London in the ruined areas. The Londoners also made these bombed out places look as well as possible, for in them they had garden furniture or flowers for sale.

From London Mrs. Damaree and her party of 20, went to Belgium where she saw the tremendous panorama of the Battle of Waterloo.

Holland, she said, had enormous gardens of tulips, giving the lovely effect of blankets of all colors. There were not so many windmills as she had expected but she learned the reason was because of electrification now in Holland.

Mrs. Damaree said she had never seen such damage as in Germany and when they said business wasn't so flourishing in Germany she said she knew one reason why. Before she could buy something she wanted at one of the stores, and though the store owner knew that her check was perfectly good, he locked up his store and they had to hunt up her agent, who then had to sign about ten papers before she could buy what she wanted.

Although she had a little difficulty with the speech of the various countries she found everyone from elevator boys up willing to help her and she found a small coin did much for her, too.

They had no trouble getting coffee in Europe, she said, although they had to wait for it, and so women in the party who had taken over their own coffee, gave it to the assistant guide. This young German had been a prisoner of war in the United States, where he had learned English and had also learned to like the Americans very much.

She visited Oberammergau at the time of the Passion Play and was fascinated with the houses in pastel shades with scrolls of blending darker colors around the windows. Here they would meet characters of the play on the street and they ate in the inn, which was run by the man who played the Christus, and his sister.

She was warned not to get too much money of one country because it was not good in another, but when she cashed a check in a Swiss bank she was told the money would be good in Italy. In Italy she offered to pay someone in Swiss money or American dollars and found that they preferred the Swiss. When Mrs. Damaree asked why, they said the Swiss money had never been devalued nor gone off the gold standard. She found that in such ways we lose prestige in other countries.

In Italy Mrs. Damaree told of the audience with the Pope, which she described as very impressive. But as they stood in a huge crowd awaiting the arrival of the Pope, an Italian woman pushed in front of her, opened up a folding chair and sat down. Then she pulled her lunch from a paper bag and ate it. Mrs. Damaree wondered why she had not thought to bring along a folding stool and lunch, too.

One of the outstanding things of her trip, Mrs. Damaree said, was the ride on the canal in Venice at night in a gondola, with the gondoliers singing and the people on the bridges singing, too. Now and then, she said, people with wonderful voices leaned out the windows of their homes and joined in the songs.

As she started to Paris one young man asked her to take his mandolin there for him and she put it over her shoulder, then two other people asked her to take cuckoo clocks they had bought—so into the big hotel in Paris she walked, with the mandolin over her shoulder and a cuckoo clock in each hand.

Paris she found delightful, too, with music and lights.

The people of Europe have learned to live more leisurely than we, Mrs. Damaree said. They enjoy the joy of living and we must have more sympathy for what we are doing with the Marshall Plan over there, she said. This money is a 25-year loan, she pointed out, to help these countries rebuild, and the countries wanting such a loan give a counterpart of the money. This is to build the ways of transportation, electricity, sanitation and many things so badly needed and it is an advantage to us to have friends financially sound.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. James McNeil, current topic chairman.

The program next week will be presented by the civics department, with the speaker to be Dr. Rollo Wood, of Warrensburg.

Defense Mobilizer Wilson Dominates Cabinet Meetings

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright 1951 By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—The man who really dominates cabinet meetings these days is not the President but Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson. Truman is so fond of Wilson personally, so determind to give him complete power, that the big square-jawed ex-head of General Electric carries far more weight than any member of the cabinet.

In fact, some cabinet meetings have featured non-too-friendly agruments in which Wilson always gets what he wants.

For example, Wilson will announce to the cabinet: "We need more timber for defense construction. The lumber people tell me we can get it from the national forests."

The national forests are under Secretary of the Interior Chapman, while the timber in them is under the forest service and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan. And if the latter argue about the need of saving timber for future generations and suggest using only half the proposed amount, Wilson's brusque reply is: "We need all of it."

Usually the President calls in the opposing cabinet member and says: "I think you'd better go along with Charlie. I had an awfully hard time getting him to take the job, and I don't want him to leave because he doesn't get cooperation."

Chief inner-cabinet gripe against Wilson is that he listens chiefly to his advisers from industry and not to his colleagues in government. Generally speaking, Wilson is doing a good job, is especially trying to help place orders with little business—despite the fact that he comes from one of the biggest companies in the world.

Note—Wilson's chief need is a few men around him who can do more long-range planning.

People-to-People Friendship

In the summer of 1947, this writer had an interesting talk with General George Marshall, then secretary of state, about the importance of penetrating the iron curtain in order to refute the Moscow radio and convince the Russian people of the basic friendliness of the American people.

Secretary Marshall seemed convinced at that time that much was to be gained from drawing a distinction between the Russian people and their government, and making it clear that the American people had no quarrel with the Russian people.

In a nation which has no free press, no churches, no parliament to exercise a check rein on the Kremlin, the only way to prevent a precipitous declaration of war is contact with the people of Russia.

This fact, is of course, the chief reason for the iron curtain. The Kremlin's greatest fear is that the Russian people will get too friendly with the outside world.

Secretary Marshall, at that time, favored making a speech in the assembly of the United Nations urging Moscow to remove the iron curtain and permit free intercourse between the people of Russia and the outside world. It was suggested that after such a speech was made, translations in the Russian language could be dropped behind the iron curtain—by weather balloons if necessary.

For some reason this speech was never made.

But now, four years later, 21 Senators have signed a resolution urging friendship between the Russian people and the American people. This is the kind of resolution that ought to be smuggled, dropped or somehow or other got behind the iron curtain.

Senator Wherry's Toast

Before French Premier Rene Pleven returned to Paris, he attended a stag dinner at the French embassy where he sat directly across the table from Senator Ken Wherry of Nebraska, the arch foe of European aid.

Throughout the meal, the French premier and the Nebraskan isolationist chatted pleasantly about past experiences. Pleven told about visiting Nebraska as a youth, and spoke glowingly of Nebraska's beef cattle.

Wherry responded with a story of himself. He recalled that, as state GOP chairman, he had made a political barnstorming trip across the state. As he moved from town to town in southwest Nebraska, he came upon a small community that had received no advance word and wasn't expecting him. Nevertheless, he rounded up the local Republican leaders and arranged a pep rally that night. As he went into his spiel about the Nebraska GOP ticket, however, he got a cold reception. There was an exchange of whispers with the local leader, and the red-faced Wherry discovered he had wandered across the border and misstakenly arranged a rally in Colorado.

The French premier laughed heartily, and soon the two were talking back and forth as if Wherry were an ardent supporter of aid to Europe. When it came tim for the traditional toasts, Senators Wiley of Wisconsin, McMahon of Connecticut, Sparkman of Alabama, Lehman of New York and Lodge of Massachusetts all drank to the success of Franco-American relations and the French aid program.

Finally it came Wherry's turn to lift his glass and turning to Pleven, he declared:

"Mr. Premier, I may ask a lot of questions. But I want you to understand that I am in favor of helping the French."

Colleagues are wondering whether Wherry will now make good the pledge he made at a private dinner.

Korean Civilian Casaulties

The grim casualty figures from Korea show, as usual, that innocent civilians sufferd the most.

Since the first shot was fired last June 25, a staggering total of 1,300,000 persons have been killed, wounded or lost. Of these, an estimated 700,00 were civilians—including an estimated 5,000 babies.

Compared with these figures, American losses were less than 48,000 killed, wounded or missing. At the same time, the United Nation forces inflicted a toll of 254,000 combat casualties on the North Koreans and 134,000 on the Chinese Communists. In addition, the United Nations has captured 136,548 North Korean prisoners of war —though only about 1,000 Chinese prisoners.

Group's Retreat From Pacifism Laid to Nature of Communism

By Bruce Biossat

Peter Lyne, a London correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, had a story to tell the other day that warrants the attenion of all of us.

He endured the Battle of Britain during World War II. He was one of a group of people who decided they would see that struggle through to the end but would be non-combatants if war ever came again.

"This decision was not due to ordinary pacifism or panic," he writes. "It was long and carefully thought out. . . We decided that no cause could justify the destruction and misery which would be wrought. It would not make sense, we said, to destroy the world in an attempt to save it."

It's 10 years since the Battle of Britain, nearly six since the war ended. How do Lyne and his friends in that group feel today about their resolution?

The prospect now is, if anything, worse than it was then. The A-bomb and the guided missile are much improved over World War II. Britons well know what it's like to live in "Buzz Bomb Alley," so their reactions to present-day dangers have more meaning than most. And so what would Lyne and his group do?

"We have changed our minds," he says. "We could not do anything else but fight."

Why this striking reversal? Replies Lyne:

"The reason for the change is the nature of communism."

If the issue is whether or not to accept the Communist way of life, he says, his group is determined that it "will not on any account accept it."

Some argue that it would be better to yield to communism than loose the forces of world destruction. Lyne and his friends considered that argument. They asked themselves whether they couldn't exist in some sort of cocoon within a Red society. And they decided they couldn't.

They took partial support for their view from the report of a missionary they heard discussing Communist China. First they listened to all the material advantages said to have come to China under communism. And then came the grim part.

It was a story of the invasion of the Chinese mind by the Reds: the changing of habits and thoughts, the breakdown of the best in Chinese family life, the use of political and class measuring sticks for judging art, music, literature, all culture, and science as well.

Concludes Lyne:

"This represents a standard of value which is utterly and completely unacceptable at any price to western thought. So completely unacceptable that even those who resolved never to fight again would fight to the extent of self-destruction rather than submit to communism, which would amount to destruction anyway."

No war-mongers, these men. They felt so strongly about the self-defeating nature of war that they had pledged themselves never to fight again. That they have changed their minds in the face of evil communism is the most eloquent answer that could ever be given to shallow thinkers who would appease the Reds.

Economic Indicator: Cadillac In Cornfield

Political reporters who roamed about the countryside in 1948 were pretty sure they knew one of the reasons President Truman licked Tom Dewey. Mr. Truman had the farmers with him.

Through the rich midwestern grain belt, the roving correspondents noted many a farmer's back yard graced by a shiny Cadillac. Reasoned the newsmen: Who would desert a president whose policies provide that kind of transportation?

If this analysis is valid, then the incumbent party in Australia ought to be set for a good while. Intelligence wafting up from Australia says that farmers are so well off some are using $5000 sedans to herd sheep in.

Wool prices are so high the farmers are beginning to think of it as spun gold. Even if those sedans only get 15 miles to the gallon, the reward makes the outlay cheap.

Doing What Seems Difficult Is Best Way to Make it Easy

One important, but often overlooked, duty of husbands and wives is to encourage each other to develop their talents and tackle the jobs they are afraid of.

A wife recently confided that she was encouraging her husband to accept invitations as a speaker because he had a more than normal dread and fear of getting up before an audience, even though his specialized knowledge made him in demand as a speaker.

"Jim," she said, "told me he was never going to make another talk. He dreaded it too much and suffered such agony until it was over. But I hated to have him say to himself: 'Here's something that has me licked' and so I urged him to do just the opposite.

Accentuate the Positive

"Instead of his saying 'I'll never make another speech' I told him to accept every invitation that came his way for a while. I know he can conquer his fear and I think it would be very bad for him to let the fear conquer him."

Most men and women are in one way or another "timid souls" who are often tempted to dodge the thing they fear to do.

Yet every time we dodge a hard job we shrink in size just a little. And every time we tackle a hard job and see it through, we grow a little.

If a husband and wife are really to help each other grow they can do so by encouraging each other to face up to the hard jobs, to do the things they fear to do.

Couples who don't do that for each other often don't go as far or get as much out of living as those who do.

The Doctor Answers

Written for NEA Service

The germ diseases are spread by direct contact or by breathing or swallowing the germs. I thought most people knew this but the first question shows that some still do not.

Q—Is there any danger of contracting tuberculosis from kissing a person who has an active case of the disease? Miss C. C.

A—Indeed there is. Many cases of tuberculosis are contracted from close contact.

Q—Do saccharin tablets hurt anyone who uses them year after year? M. C.

A—This question keeps cropping up. It has been studied scientifically, and the regular use of saccharin has been shown to be harmless. Any claims to the contrary are not well supported with scientific evidence.

Q—I have heard that whichever parent is the strongest and in the best health at the time of conception, child will be of the same sex. Is there anything to this?
Mrs. J. B. B.

A—There is almost certainly nothing to this theory. The sex of a particular child is determined by the germ cells of the parents, and this is not altered one way or the other by the state of health of the parents.

Q—Is walking during pregnacy important to the health and well-being of the unborn child, and does it make the delivery easier for the mother?
Expectant Mother.

A—Many doctors recommend a moderate amount of excerise during pregnancy. Walking is often good because it is not violent, and yet helps keep the mother in good condition. Anything which does this is good for the unborn child, and probably makes delivery easier.

Q—The other day my 10-month-old grandchild was in his playpen holding on with his right hand when I offered him a pretzel. He reached out with his left hand but I made him take it with his right. His mother was there at the time and reprimanded me, saying that I should let him use whichever hand he wanted. Shouldn't he be trained now to use his right hand?

A—I believe the mother is right. The general feeling today is that a child should be allowed to use whichever hand he wishes. Certainly at 10 months old, a youngster ought to be able to reach for a pretzel with either hand.

Q—Kindly let me know if marathon racing is injurious to the heart or general health.
Interested Reader.

A—Although very few readers of this column indulge in marathon racing, I presume, this is an interesting question. The only brief answer possible is that a good many people have done it, and apparently have not harmed themselves in any way.

Q—Is it possible to have gallstones dissolved or have them pass through the bile without an operation?
Mrs. J. H. W.

A—Sometimes gallstones pass of themselves but there is no medicine or chemical which can be given to dissolve them. Surgery is the only way to get rid of gallstones.

• Q's and A's

Q—When will Federal rent control end?

A—Under present law, Federal rent control will end on January 1, 1951, except in localities where local governing bodies request that it be kept in effect.

Q—What is videognosis?

A—Videognosis is a new method of diagnosis enlisting the aid of television. Specialists hundreds of miles away may study X-rays of a patient and discuss the case with the attending physician almost as if they were in the same room.

Q—Can jet planes refuel while in flight?

A—Yes. Recently an American jet fighter flew non-stop from London to New York refueling in mid-air at four points along the route.

Q—What and where was Galatia?

A—It was an ancient country of central Asia Minor in what is now Turkey. During his visit there, St. Paul wrote his Epistle to the Galatians.

Q—How many men will the U. S. have under arms when present plans to double our defense forces are carried out?

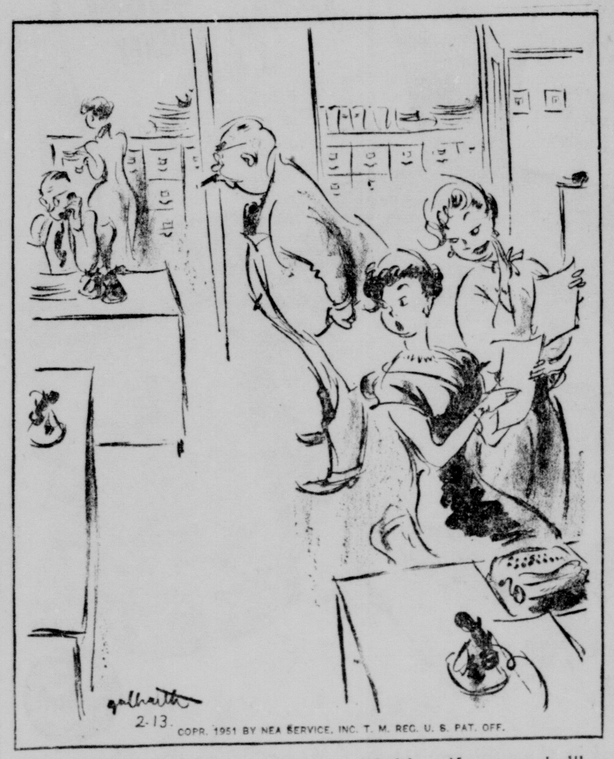

A—It is expected that by mid-1952, there will be 3,000,000 men in the army, navy, air force and marine corps.

Crimson Holiday

By Jane Holsinger

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Lavinia Grenable's death, when her wheel chair plunged into a ravine, was murder —someone sawed the brake. Lisa Farwell, fiancee of Lavinia's oldest son Court, witnessed the tragedy in company with Angus Kent, a young lawyer. Lisa saw her father, Henry Farwell, who opposed her engagement to Court, near the scene, but denies she saw anyone when questioned by the sheriff. Others are questioned, including Court's brother Andrew, and Lavinia's secretary, Geri Palmer, and when the sheriff wrings an admission from the dead woman's sister, Elizabeth Stratton, that she was near where the saw was found, Henry Farwell admits that he was the man on the ridge.

BUT, thought Lisa Farwell sadly, even the gentlest of people come to hate some time in their lives. It had been Elizabeth Stratton in the shrubbery then. Lisa knew now that it had been Elizabeth she had seen just after the wheel chair had crashed into the ravine carrying Lavinia Farwell to her death.

But Lisa's father! He couldn't have come to the Grenable house to take a hand in murder. He had come only to talk to Elizabeth. But her father's words kept coming back to Lisa and they folded around her now like a thick, gray veil, suffocating her. He had said: "I'd give my life . . ."

Lisa began to weep helplessly.

Henry Farwell was saying, "I told Lavinia she'd get no place with her threats against Elizabeth and then I talked to Elizabeth afterwards, down near the coach house. I had started home by way of the ridge when Lavinia's first scream sounded. From that distance I couldn't tell exactly what it was and so I kept on walking."

"You didn't know that Mrs. Grenable had been killed then?" Sheriff Lane asked.

"No. Shortly after I reached home Elizabeth telephoned to tell me what had happened." Mr. Farwell sighed and sat down. Then, apparently as an afterthought: "Who saw me on the ridge, sheriff?"

At first, the silence that drifted across the room was meaningless to Lisa. At length she felt, rather than saw, the heads turning toward her. She gasped. They were not looking at her. They were staring past her.

Court Grenable said thickly, "I told the sheriff. I had to tell him. Lisa. I thought . . ."

But Court couldn't finish when he saw the sickness in the eyes of the girl he had asked to be his wife.

"YOU accused my father?" Lisa's voice was almost disbelieving.

"No! No, Lisa. Don't believe that! I only reported what I saw," Court's voice was pleading. "Aunt Elizabeth was on the back terrace and your father was on the ridge. I told the sheriff just that. I was there too—I mean I was at home. I didn't have an alibi. I had just come in the east side entrance and I was on my way to mother's room when I heard her scream."

Court was appealing to Lisa, half begging, and Lisa didn't know which sickened her the most, the fact that he had cast suspicion on her father, or the tone of his voice.

* * *

LISA remembered well Court had been standing in the archway to the terrace, expressions of dark brooding and shock struggling on his handsome face. She remembered his gaze toward the ridge. Now she knew why Angus Kent had tried to warn her.

"How could you?" she whispered.

Sheriff Lane drew a deep breath, rubbed his face and looked at Angus who drew a piece of paper from his pocket and handed it to the sheriff wordlessly.

Lisa was too confused at the moment to wonder too much over that silent exchange and Lane's next approach began before she had time to try to sort out her jumbled emotions.

The sheriff now began addressing Marion Carson for the first time.

"Mrs. Carson," he asked, "you and your husband live in New York?"

Marion Carson, the daughter of the murdered woman, took a few moments to adjust herself.

"Yes," she said smoothly. "You already know, from what my brother Andrew has told you that this whole so-called holiday at home was a farce. Phillip, my husband, and I have never been on what might be called friendly terms with my mother. But we certainly didn't kill her."

"Where were you when . . . when it happened?" the sheriff asked.

"Upstairs in the guest bedroom. We were there all afternoon. We have no alibi other than that." Mrs. Carson spoke harshly but without excitement or nervousness. "Both of us were tired after our trip from New York. The night before we had tried to visit with Mother, but she was, as usual, quarrelsome."

In a few more years, thought Lisa Farwell, Marion Carson would resemble her mother.

Then Marion continued: "We had decided to leave early, and we were packing when the—screams—came."

SHERIFF LANE dug his hands into his pockets a little more deeply. "I see," he said. He turned to her husband. "I understand you are planning to run for the Senate next spring, Mr. Carson."

A slow, terrible flush rose first in Phillip Carson's neck. It spread across his face. He glanced with a kind of tortured disbelief in his eyes toward his wife.

"Did Court also tell you that?" Phillip Carson demanded.

The sheriff smiled now.

"We have a more authoritative source for most of our information," he answered in an even tone. "You see, Mr. Carson, we have found Mrs. Grenable's diary."

Ugh! Heap Big Loophole in Price Freeze!

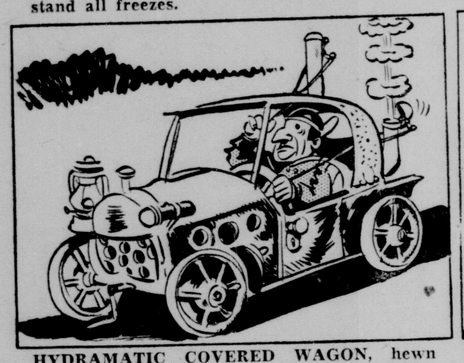

At the risk of tipping off unscrupulous businessmen, we must report that Section 14 (L) of the recent price freeze is a legal loophole. It exempts "handicraft objects produced by the manual skill of Indians or Eskimos." Our captive Philadelphia lawyer says a smart operator could hire, with impunity, some redskins or igloo-dwellers as workmen and sell their products for as much as the traffic would bear. Such typical examples of freeze-free handicraft as those sketched below, for instance.

SNOW INSULATED PRE-FAB HOMES—Specially-constructed house of fitted snow blocks ($80,000 F.O.B. Alaska). Can be erected by block party in a single night. Single entrance and set of harpoons insure privacy. Built-in food locker, ideal for storing whale meat, blubber and frozen daiquiris. Guaranteed to withstand all freezes.

HAND-CARVED TELEVISION SET, with totem pole antenna that will give you reception head-and-shoulders above that offered by conventional sets. (Taller totem poles available on request.) Rubber tomahawks, accompanying the set, permit wrestling fans to express their ire without damaging the screen.

HYDRAMATIC COVERED WAGON, hewn from lightweight metals. This eight-cylinder convertible features mountain lion upholstery and a handy trunk bed into which the squaw can shove her squawking papoose. Will steer straight as an arrow with nary a quiver over the bumpiest of trails. Exhaust pipes permit directional smoke signaling.

HAND-STITCHED SHOES—Chief Blazing Eye Miller, famed for his soft-shoe war dances, announces a spring line of modest cowhide pumps, wedgies, sandals, oxfords and evening slippers, decorated with glittering trade heads and gilded cross straps of genuine top grain buffalo leather. Also a limited supply of moccasins, suitable for use on camping trips.

Roy P. McCune

Mrs. Harry P. Meyer, 1905 East Broadway, has received word of the death of her uncle Roy P. McCune, who passed away January 21 at Woodland hospital in Woodland, Calif.

Mr. McCune was born at Dresden, Mo., August 25, 1876, the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. McCune and grew to young manhood there and at LaMonte, where his father was in the mercantile business. About forty years ago his father was the La Monte postmaster.

For a long term of years Mr. McCune resided at Oroville, California, and the funeral services were held at the Sanford funeral home there with the Rev. Carl Tamblyn, Episcopal minister of Marysville, assisting the officers of the Elks lodge in the service, which was under the auspices of the Elks. Burial was in Oroville cemetery with ritualistic rites by the Elks.

Mr. McCune had been a member of the Elks for 45 years. He went to Oroville in 1909 following his marriage to Mary Billiou of Hamilton City in Oakland that same year.

For a period of years he was connected with grocery firms in Oroville and later with a shoe store.

About thirty years ago the McCunes purchased the Glen Miller orange and olive groves in Wyandotte, making their home there until moving to Quincy road, Oroville, about 12 years ago.

Mr. McCune was active in public affairs during his long residence in the Oroville community. He was a trustee of the Oroville union high school district for eleven years. For two years he was president of the Butte county Farm Bureau. He was secretary of the Oroville Olive Growers' association for a long period and took active part in promoting the Oroville orange and olive exposition.

ally estimated to own 1,000 villages and surrounding agricultural lands which support a quarter million peasants. The shah's properties now are to be sold to the little people on easy terms.

Move a Bold One

This championship of the people is a bold move on the part of the ruler. It requires no imagination to realize that the landed gentry of Persia will fight to the last ditch against such a redistribution, on the basis that it is likely to drag them along with it. They aren't yet ready to share with the poor.

However, a battle with his landed gentry is the less of two evils for the shah. Across his northern border the long arm of Russian communism is reaching to win converts among the under privileged. Poverty and nunger provide the most fertile soil for the growth of bolshevism.

The dissolution of the great landed estates of Europe, with a resulting benefit to the small folk, has been moving apace in recent years. As I pointed out in a recent column, Britain's landed gentry is rapidly disappearing, the change being due largely to heavy taxation which has forced the sale of the huge holdings. And on the continent, Italy has been having a field day in splitting up big estates.

Persia will be about the farthest east that this upheaval has reached on a big scale, barring the American-impelled reforms in Japan. In many other oriental countries the farmers either are tenants, paying rent to the big landlords, or their ownership comprises a tiny parcel of land. India, Pakistan and China are great nations which are prime examples of a call for development of the land.

Five overtime parkers who failed to appear in court forfeited cash bonds of $1.00 each.

Get Accord on Price Enforcing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13—(AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston announced "complete agreement" today between the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) and the Justice Department of the court enforcement of price and wage controls.

A special assistant United States attorney, nominated by OPS, will be set up in each of the 96 judicial districts to handle price and wage litigation exclusively, Johnston told reporters.

The special attorneys will be sworn in as employes of the justice department, but they are to work closely with regional and city OPS offices.

They will handle not only criminal cases arising from price ceiling violations but also will represent consumers in civil suits for the recovery of damages in cases of over-pricing.

OPS Directer Michael V. DiSalle is understood to have assented to this arangement although he previously objected vigorously to the placing of enforcement in the justice department instead of his own agency.

Chinese Reds Make Endeavor to Split Lines of the Allies

west road in northern South Korea.

Once in possession of the road, the Reds would be in position to strike east or west behind allied lines. They would menace the four or more divisions along the western front in the Seoul area, and 10th corps units holding the central front line near Wonju.

Allied air power seared one band of 1,000 Reds moving down the western most of the two valleys near Sokking. They hit with flaming napalm jellied gasoline and machineguns. Pilots estimated they killed 300 of this group.

Allied planes also hit two other groups—about 400 Reds 100 miles northeast of Yoju and another 100 skirting Chipyong.

Little Ground Action

There was little ground fighting Tuesday compared with Monday's blazing battle around Hoengsong. American and South Korean troops had fought their way out of the trap sprung by 100,000-man Red force and had taken up new defensive positions.

Much of Tuesday was spent by both allies and Communists in regrouping for new fighting.

But there was one clash 15 miles west of Wonju. An allied force drove back into the hills a Red column striking for the Wonju-Yoju road. Allied planes aided in routing the Reds.

The withdrawal from Hoengsong leaves Chipyong the northernmost allied strongpoint on the central front.

In addition to hitting the Chinese, allied aircraft also destroyed quantities of ammunition and supplies left behind when the Hoengsong perimeter collapsed. Some field artillery, heavy mortars and ammunition were showered with flaming gasoline bombs before the Chinese had a chance to salvage the allied weapons.

Lt. Col. Matt Hoskoc, Carmel, Calif., a divisional operations officer on the western front, described the upsurge in Communist activity as:

"A delayed reaction to our reaching the Han river. They buttoned up on their defense line north of the Han and are sending patrols down to heckle us. South of the Han river they are trying to hold where they still have men."

Fire From North of Han

Communist shells whistled into allied positions along the western front. They were fired from cleverly camouflaged mortars and field pieces north of the Han.

Allied artillery claimed three of these Communist guns were destroyed by pinpoint battery fire.

For the first time Red tanks were reported moved into bolster the Communist defenses along the shore of the Han and inside Seoul. Allied air claimed two tanks destroyed.

farm ceilings at below parity levels be allowed. There have been hints that top administration officials have been giving this serious consideration, although others have said they see no need to change the law now.

By using subsidies it would be possible to impose lower farm price ceilings and bring rising food costs to a halt. The government would give farmers subsidy payments large enough to give them a total return of parity — that is, the below-parity market price plus subsidies.

Through use of subsidies it would be possible to roll back prices of those foods which have risen the most — such as meats.

But the bulk of the major farm organizations are dead set against subsidies, which they contend hide production costs, add to inflation and pass a part of the present food bill along to the taxpayers.

Most observers believe farm leaders would rather take subsidies, even if they gagged on them, than to have the parity idea interfered with.

World War II food subsidies cost more than $4,000,000,000. Items covered included milk, butterfat, grains, dry beans, fruits, vegetables, oilseed products, sugar, coffee, cocoa, butter, livestock and meats and flour.

Aerial View of Houstonia, Missouri

In 1851 Thomas F. Houston, a member of one of North Carolina's most illustrious families, emigrated to the northern portion of Pettis county where he settled and became one of the largest land owners in central Missouri. Houston laid out a town in the northern portion of Pettis county and as settlers began to find their way into the area and populated the town they naturally looked for an appropriate name. It was then that they decided to name it Houstonia in honor of the founder.

Houston was born in Houstonville, N. C. — which got its name from his grandfather — in 1818 and was educated under one of the most famous men of his time, Marshal Ney.

Ney, an important member of Napoleon Bonaparte's staff of generals, was sentenced to death by the French government, following Napoleon's final defeat and exile. However, shortly after his reported execution Ney appeared in America. During the time he was in the United States and until his death in 1846, Ney spent his time teaching, writing and looking for his opportunity to return to France.

Issued a Statement

Houston issued a statement on Ney, some time after the marshal's death, in which he attempted to prove that the school teacher known in North Carolina as "P. S. Ney" was the distinguished Marshal Ney. Since that time additional evidence has been uncovered in the attempt to prove this point.

When asked how he had escaped from the firing squad Ney was reported to have explained that the squad was made up of soldiers who had formerly served under him in the Napoleonic army. When they fired on him they aimed their shots over his head. Ney told Houston that he fell to the ground and lay there until friends came for his body. His aides took him from the prison and carried him to a boat on which he came to America.

Many conflicting opinions have been proposed by historians as to the authenticity of this, but to Houston he was, without a shadow of a doubt, the marshal.

Railroad Into Region

Shortly after Houston's town began to expand the Lexington branch of the Missouri Pacific railroad was run through the region. The line was known as the Lexington & St. Louis railroad and Houston was not only one of its principal stockholders, but also its president for many years.

It was this railroad that gave Houstonia its real beginning in Pettis county. For many years it competed with neighboring communities for supremacy as a center for cattle shipping. It is said that at one time around 1910 the town led the state in livestock shipments.

About the time Houstonia was still experiencing the pangs of growth and expansion one of the worst disasters in the history of the community struck. One morning in February, 1872, a tornado hit the town and destroyed practically every structure. After the storm had passed an examination of the ruins showed that the only building left standing was the local saloon. About ten persons were killed in the storm.

Another Disaster

Houstonia began once again to rebuild and again disaster struck. On Tuesday, February 20, 1889 at about 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon a fire broke out in the Central hotel. A call was sent out over the community and the citizens turned out with buckets and blankets, but the fire could not be brought under control and before it had burned out, a major portion of the business district was destroyed. The entire business section was razed by fire again in 1910.

Earlier in 1910 the town was subjected to its first bank robbery. Two men broke into the bank after it had closed, used explosives to open the safe and made off with over $4,000. The robbers stole a horse and buggy, belonging to Mrs. Jennie Williams and raced out of town. Some time later police found the buggy abandoned in Sedalia. On the floor of the vehicle officers found papers which had been taken from the Houstonia bank. The robbers (investigators claimed two men were involved), were never caught.

Again in the 20's a second bank robbery was attempted, but this time different tactics were employed. First the robbers went to the hardware store adjacent to the bank and got a roll of heavy wire. They carried this wire to the bank and set up a barricade in front of the building. In spite of all this planning, however, the three men connected wit hthe robbery, left without the money.

Business Projects

Next to cattle, one of the most important businesses in Houstonia was milling. A mill, built by a Mr. Briscoe, operated in the community for many years before finally closing. A grain elevator was built by Lee Stiles in 1915.

The largest company operating in Houstonia is the Panhandle Eastern Gas company, which has one of its pump stations located there. This station is reputed to be the largest in the country, pumping a supply of natural gas from Texas to this region. Nearly $3,000,000 has been spent on the plant, which employs about 150 men.

Joe Jenkins and George Cummins, two of the largest turkey raisers in the country, have their farms near Houstonia.

Newspapers

The first newspaper to be printed in Houstonia was The Spectator, published by Joseph Williams in 1890. This paper went out of existence in 1910 and was replaced by The Houstonian, edited by Roy Morris. Soon after this weekly publication was ended the Houstonia Leader, under Frank Algerier, took over and continued until 1933, when it too closed down.

Artie Nutt, a local carpenter, is the mayor and chief administrator for the town's 405 inhabitants. A city council aids the mayor in the governing of the town's civic affairs. The entire populace forms the volunteer fire department and a city marshal handles the police duties of the community.

The city plans on installing a city street lighting system in the near future. Nearly the entire population uses natural gas as its sole source of fuel.

In the face of the many disasters that have come to the town Houstonia has never weakened in its efforts to advance along with the other thriving communities in this region.

The Clifton City Home Economics and Extension club met with an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Paul Young with 11 members and two visitors, Mrs. Walter Anthony of Otterville and Mrs. Mabel Harlan, present. A contributed lunch was served at the noon hour.

The meeting was called to order by the president. The club song was sung and roll call was answered by equipment to help fight fires with. The minutes were read and approved. Mrs. George Grose and Mrs. F. S. Needy had charge of the program, "Posture With Poise," by talks and demonstrations. A motion was made to send one dollar to the polio drive, also to serve refreshments for the 4-H club meetings. Mrs. Young read a letter from Mrs. Zimmerman.

Missouri Upsets Jayhawks 39-38; Ruin Title Hopes

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 13—(AP)—Playing slow and deliberately all the way, the Missouri Tigers struck a damaging blow to Kansas' hopes of the Big Seven basketball title by beating the Jayhawks, 39-38, last night.

It was Kansas' second Big Seven loss against 5 victories and left the Jayhawks, pre-season favorites, two full games behind front running Kansas State, (7-0).

Guard George Lafferty hit the winning fielder with less than half a minute remaining to give Missouri its third conference victory in six starts.

Missouri had never been ahead until Lafferty dropped in the winner. After going scoreless for the first eight minutes, at which time Kansas led 6-0, Missouri rallied and trailed only 15-19 at the half.

Kansas played sloppily all evening and Missouri was very determined, using a full press all over the court that kept the heat on the Jayhawkers, who were trying to bring their coach, Prog Allen, his 400th conference basketball victory.

Big Clyde Lovellette scored 24 points for Kansas, but he was the Jayhawks' only threat.

It was Lafferty who provided the Missouri punch. With three minutes to play, his fielder deadlocked the score at 37-all. Bill Houghland scored a free throw to edge Kansas again, but then came Lafferty's winning basket.

Sacred Heart Cage Clinic Underway

A basketball program for boys who are in grade school and freshmen who did not make the varsity teams at Sacred Heart high school has been underway for the past several weeks at the Sacred Heart gym under the direction of Rev. A. Migoni, athletic director and Palmer Nichols, basketball coach.

The program will continue for several weeks and consists of games between various organized teams. Following the games during which each boy is given a chance to play, ten of the boys making the best showing for the day play a final game which usually results in a close and well played game

Learn Fundamentals

The boys are given instruction on the fundamentals of basketball such as passing, dribbling, shooting and general basketball play. Interest has been good among the boys and some good prospects are being given special instruction so they may be ready for next season for play on the junior team or the B team.

Bill Hodges and Dick Stohr of the Gremlins have been assisting in the program coaching teams and lending assistance in the demonstration of fundamentals.

Players Are Assisting

Boys who have been reporting for this program are J. Dick, P. Ressel, P. Jett, T. Menefee, Rouchka, Bennett, Mosier, N. Steffens, D. Dick, Burke, Adams, Racunass, Boul, Welliver, Matea, McKee, Hildebrandt, D. Matea, C. Mosier, M. Metter, Mark Mettler, Weathers, Wasson, Bahner, Rialti, J. Ressell and several others.

A tournament is being planned for the boys at the close of the program with the teams being coached by members of the Gremlin team

Plan Ring Meet For 7 Wrestlers Saturday Night

Opening wrestling on Saturday nights will bring to Sedalia this week-end a state championship tournament. Seven well-known wrestlers will participate in a program of six matches starting at 9:00 o'clock in the evening.

One wrestler will draw a bye and meet the winner of the third event of the first round. The other wrestlers will be paired by drawing of names in a hat in the wrestling ring.

The winner of the first and second round matches will meet, the winner of the first match and the wrestler who draw a bye will meet in the semi-finals. The two remaining winners will clash in the final match.

The preliminary matches of the tournament will be one fall with a 20-minute time limit and the final event will be one-fall with no limit.

Plenty of action will be seen in the tournament style of professional heavyweight events.

Harrison Wins The Play-Off Of Texas Open

Doug Ford Fails To Take Crown After Top Show

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 13—(AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, who has been following the tournament trail longer than most anybody—17 years to be exact— won the Texas Open today from Doug Ford of Briar Cliff, N. Y., a freshman to championship golf.

Harrison, the old Arkansas traveler registered from St. Andrews, Ill., beat Ford by a stroke in an 18-hole play-off necessitated when they tied for first place yesterday with 72-hole scores of 265.

Harrison had a four under par 67 over the 6,400-yard Breckenridge Park course.

Ford, rated by Harrison as one of the two brightest prospects now on the tournament trail, fought the veteran doggedly all the way. Both played in grim silence. The New York 27-year-old was seeking his first major championship. Harrison was after just one in a long chain.

Harrison took $2,000 first money in the tournament while Ford received $1,400. The result vaulted Ford from tenth to sixth place among the money-winners of the year with $2,688.34. Harrison has won $2,600 and is seventh.

It was the ninth play-off in which Harrison has participated down through the years and the third that he has won. His last tournament victories were last year when he took first in the Wilmington, N. C., and the California State opens.

In today's match, Harrison consistently outdrove the stocky Ford ail also was better on the greens. "I was putting as well as he was today—he usually does better," Harrison commented.

The two finished the first nine today with Harrison one up.

Compromise Ends Problem On Bus Route

explained the necessity of the bus at certain hours as children from his school rode the bus to and from the school, but was agreeable to some kind of a run reduction.

The Rev. B. C. Brock, spoke in behalf of the residents of the northside who use the bus considerably during certain periods of the day.

Walker Paxton, 24th street and Ohio avenue, explained he had an automobile and rode in it but did use the bus at times. However explained there were many residents in that section of the city who needed bus service. He did not object to some kind of a compromise.

Carl Abbott spoke for a short time and suggested that the bus cut its running time to two shifts during the day in such a manner it would accommoidate both school children and the working people.

Mr. Wesner again said the bus company was willing to a compromise and suggested the route start at 6:00 o'clock in the morning and operate until 10:00 or start at 7:00 o'clock and operate until 11:00 o'clock in the morning and then cut off until about 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon and run through 7:00 o'clock.

Mr. Wesner explained the bus many many times had operated between 7:00 o'clock and 11:00 o'clock at night and never took in as much as one dollar for the four hours.

Unemployment Enters Picture

Mrs. Nellie Phillips, Twenty-Sixth street and Lafayette avenue, spoke from her seat and explained the reason for the lack of passengers was due to the fact a great many people in that section are without work. But she explained those who are working have jobs at Lamy's. The Producers Packing Plant, Swift's and Town and Country Shoe Co., and had to have some kind of transportation to and from work.

She did remark, "There ought to be something done about Saturday night, that's the poor peoples night, and we would like transportation then." However, she did not oppose the compromise suggestion.

Mayor Studer said the city did not want to inconvenience anyone especialy the taxpayers, but they did not want to abuse someone who had positive proof the line was losing considerable money.

He then called a brief caucus of four aldermen who were in attendance, Harry Moore from the First ward; Elmer Sumners of the Second Ward; Earl H. Lashley, from the Third Ward, and Jim Reed of the Fourth Ward. After a brief discussion at the desk of Mayor Studer, they agreed to the compromise time of 6:00 a. m. to 10:00 a. m. and 3 p. m. to 7 p. m.

After the announcement, no one in the audience desired to make comment giving evidence they apparently were satisfied.

Uncle Sam Wants You to Pay These

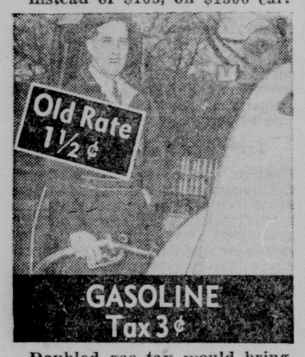

Here are some of the new excise taxes that Treasury Secretary Snyder has asked Congress to clamp on as part of the administration's plan to raise an extra $10,155,000,000 in new defense money. These taxes are paid by the manufacturer and are added to the price you pay for each product. In addition, the government wants steeper amusement taxes, including a 20 per cent tax on bowling alley, billiard parlor and from golf green fees.

Federal tax would be $300, instead of $105, on $1500 car.

Including refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, washers, etc.

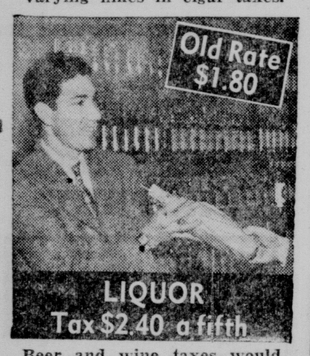

Doubled gas tax would bring in about $580,000,000 a year.

Twenty-five cent packs? Also varying hikes in cigar taxes.

Set now taxed $20 to be $50. Also phonographs, records.

Beer and wine taxes would be boosted about 50 per cent.

CARNIVAL IN NICE — The gigantic King Carnival float passes through streets of Nice, France, as the 67th Nice Carnival opens despite an unseasonable rainstorm. This year's theme is from the La Fontaine fables.

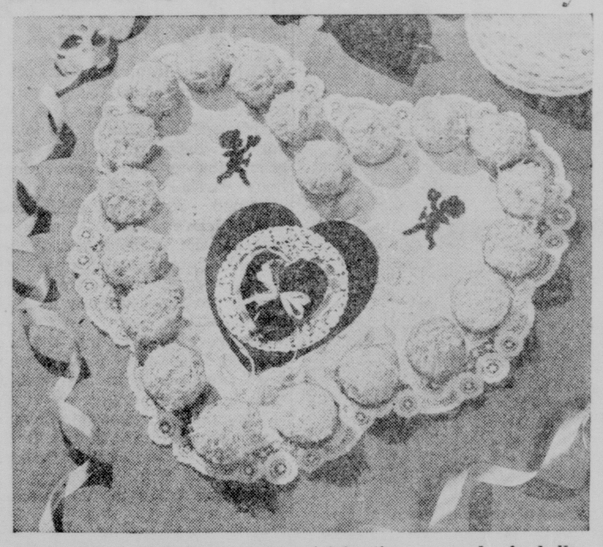

Calm and Cool

Pure water, if absolutely calm, will not freeze as quickly as agitated water. It can be reduced to several degrees below the freezing point without congealing, but a slight shaking will cause it to solidify quickly.

Tractor vs. Pusher

When an airplane propeller is located at the front of the engine and pulls the plane through the air, it is called a tractor. If it is located behind the engine and pushes the plane, it is called a pusher.

Time For a Valentine's Party

VALENTINE TREAT: Coconut pastel frosting on angel cake balls.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

Even if Valentine's Day has crept up on you and caught you unprepared, there is still time to do something about it. Just step into your neighborhood bakery and buy two dozen cupcakes, or two angel food cakes. The rest is easy.

First, frost the cupcakes with coconut pastel frosting. Or, with two forks, separate the angel food cakes into balls about two inches in diameter and cover them with the frosting. Next, arrange the cakes to form a heart on a background of paper doilies that overlap each other so that the lacy edges outline the cakes. Decorate your valentine with cupids and hearts and cut from colored metal paper, a lace frill and a ribbon bow or two. Then give your party.

Coconut Pastel Frosting

One-half cup tart jelly, 1 egg white, unbeaten, 4 tablespoons sugar, dash of salt, ¾ cup coconut.

Combine jelly, egg white, sugar and salt in top of double boiler and mix thoroughly. Place over boiling water and beat with rotary egg beater three minutes. Frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from boiling water and cool slightly before spreading. Spread on cake, sprinkling with coconut while frosting is still soft. Note: This makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two 9-inch layers, or top and sides of 13x99x2-inch cake, or about two dozen cupcakes.

MENU

BREAKFAST —Grapefruit, oatmeal, cinnamon toast, coffee, milk.

VALENTINE LUNCHEON: Tomato bouillon in cups, salted crackers, minced chicken souffle with cream sauce and green peas, hot biscuits, butter or fortified margarine, celery hearts, Valentine cakes with coconut pastel frosting, mints, tea, milk.

DINNER — Two roasted stuffed broiler-fryer chickens, giblet gravy, baked potatoes, buttered green beans, soft rolls, butter or fortified margarine, cranberry tarts, coffee, milk.

Furs Come to the Dollar

WASHINGTON—(AP)—New York City has replaced European centers as the fur capital of the world, mainly because four sellers prefer to sell their pelts for dollars, rather than for less stable currencies.

E. T. Ransom, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, says one result has been that competition has been increased and fur farming in the United States has become more risky.

The Soviet union is the largest exporters of furs, Ransom says.

Salute Booms on Shah's Wedding

TEHRAN, Iran, Feb. 13—(AP)—The thunder of a 21-gun salute boomed out the news of the shah's wedding Monday to lovely Soraya Esfandiari, 18-year-old granddaughter of a once rebellious Persian tribal chief.

Seated before two chief mullahs, Iran's highest religious leaders, the once divorced shah and his European-educated, half-German bride were wed in a simple Moslem ceremony at Marnar palace.

By order of the shah, the traditional splendor of Persian court fetes was lacking in the celebration of the wedding.

The shah, 32-year-old Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, waited at the palace while his sisters, Princess Ashraf and Princess Chams, escorted the bride to the wedding scene.

Only members of the royal family, relatives of the bride and a few dignitaries were present at the ceremony itself.

Has Taken It Herself For Over 30 Years!

We always consider it an honor to publish a letter from a nurse. Mrs. Rose McNally, who lives at 202 Stevens Road, Baltimore, Maryland, feels that Lydia Pinkham's Compound has been her best friend through the years. She writes us:
"I just had to tell you that Lydia Pinkham's Compound has helped me these past 30 years in relieving functional symptoms due to menstruation and the menopause. I am never without it. I am a nurse and work every day. Through change of life it has been my best friend in relieving distress of this nature, so I cannot praise it too highly.
"Lots of my friends have or are still taking it. So to sum it all up, I feel that Pinkham's Compound has been my best friend. I can swear to this and honestly. My husband is my best witness."

This Amazing Medicine Made Exclusively for Girls—Women
If you suffer painful monthly distress or feel tired, weak, nervous, 'dragged-out' at such times — due to female functional periodic complaints — why not try Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve these symptoms? Lydia Pinkham's Compound is also very effective to relieve hot flushes, nervous irritability, tense emotions and dragged-out feelings — when due to functional change of life (usually between 38 and 52 years old).
You see Pinkham's Compound is what is known to doctors as a uterine sedative — it has such a wonderfully soothing antispasmodic action on one of woman's most important organs. Pinkham's Compound works through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to bring this welcome comforting relief.

Mrs. Rose McNally
